

MURDER PACT LAID TO "SLAVE FANTASY"

Coolidge Ready to Meet Issues

By Robert Small
Special Correspondent.

New York—Enough has been said by the principals involved to make certain that one of the outstanding issues of the coming campaign will be the responsibility of Coolidge to the United States always has been a government by party. As such it has been effective. The American form of government, however, breaks down under a system of blocs and coalitions, suggestive of the parliamentarism of the old world.

The democrats are preparing to attack the republicans on party responsibility along two separate lines. Speaking in the presence of and with the approval of John W. Davis, Gov. Al Smith has announced that the republicans must accept full party responsibility for all that happened in Washington the past four years, including the Teapot Dome and all the rest of the so-called scandals. He says they will not be permitted to evade the issue by a plea that the persons immediately involved were cast out after public discovery.

Second Line of Attack

The second line of attack to be taken by the democrats is the claim that the republicans in congress are split into blocs and factions, that party responsibility no longer exists among them. Party discipline has become a thing of the past and party "regularity" a thing of the past.

Smith's Portion

Gov. Smith has said that Gov. James M. Cox, the democratic candidate in 1920, and the entire democratic organization gladly and bravely accepted full "party" responsibility for Woodrow Wilson and all that he did before, during and after the war. The republicans, he insists, can do no less this year with ex-Secretary Fall and others affected by the Washington investigation.

So far as President Coolidge is concerned, it is said by his friends that he is perfectly willing to take up the issue of party responsibility in the coming campaign. He believes that when a man accepts a nomination from a party and enters the White House, he owes personal responsibility and allegiance to the organization.

Coolidge's Republicanism

It was said by Mr. Coolidge that he believed in God, in Jesus Christ, in the Congregational church and the republican party. He is such a staunch believer in the G. O. P. that he has for one year accepted full responsibility for all that has gone on in Washington, including the post-investigation record of the administration and still held his head high.

Loeb's childish phantasy to commit a kidnapping and slaying, resulting in the Franks, Dr. H. H. Hubert, Chicago psychiatrist, testified today in the hearing to fix their punishment.

There were no criminalistic phantasies in Leopold's life, continued the doctor.

Blamed God for Loss.

The testimony rendered to Leopold's religious life, the witness saying that, because of his advanced intellectual life, Leopold was ready for confirmation well before he was of the usual age when he reached the age he did not care to be confirmed.

"He finally found fault with God, because God makes mistakes, making a great mistake when he took his mother."

"His mother's death made a great change in Leopold's life. He never did adjust himself to the world after she died."

Asked as to Leopold's criminalistic tendencies by Walter Bachrach of defense counsel, Dr. Hubert said Leopold stole some stamps at the age of 9, stole his brother's necktie and traded it for a clear bubble gum, the thefts by the statement: "Why, that was all right; I wanted them."

"They're thefts, Alfred."

The pretty child, Leopold, evolved with Loeb was not a success, said the doctor, who added:

"They were not kept enough to make it a success and lost money by it."

Their petty thefts, the robbing of a University of Michigan first house, and other misdoings previously rectified by other students were gone over by Dr. Hubert.

It was understood the defense intended to complete its plea for mitigation of punishment Monday, and the hearing might be concluded by the end of next week.

TUBURNS COMPANY

RAIN CAUSES BIG SLUMP IN PAVING

Only 600 Yards Laid on Milton Avenue Project in Week.

With only about 600 square yards of concrete being laid on Milton avenue since Monday, the R. R. Updell and Sons Construction company experienced the poorest week since work was started on the nine mile paving project in May.

The increasing rains made continuous work on the avenue impossible. Downpours of Sunday put the street in such a muddy condition that it was Wednesday before the grade was in shape for trucks to pass over. The rains of Wednesday again held up the pavers and on Friday little was accomplished. Friday morning an attempt was made to haul the trucks to the mixing machine with tractors, but it proved impracticable. A small stretch of about 80 square yards was done before the rain halted the work.

East Half Completed
The east side of Milton avenue is now completely finished from Milwaukee avenue to St. Mary's avenue. The west side remains to be poured from a point near Glen street. It is expected that with continuous good weather the entire highway could be laid in three more days.

Street-car service has now been resumed in Prospect avenue. The dirt stretch of the car running at this week and regular service is being rendered to that point. The street itself, up to Prospect, may be thrown open to traffic in the near future. Fourth avenue is open to Milton avenue.

Finch Track Re-laying
The re-laying of the trolley tracks on Washington street has been completed with the exception of a small stretch near the intersection of High and 4th avenue. Car service to a point beyond the hospital has now been resumed.

It is not known definitely yet where the work will be resumed with the finishing of Milton avenue. It is expected that the machines will be moved to Prairie avenue, although there is a possibility that Washington street will be started.

Although work has been somewhat delayed during the past few weeks, due to weather setbacks, it is believed that with the continued operation of the two machines the entire program will be completed by fall.

Soft Water without Odor or Color

SOFT WATER is a necessity in every modern home. But alas! rain water is foul-smelling and black. It is undesirable to drink and disagreeable to use otherwise.

But, NOW, with the

every home—old or new—may have pure, clean SOFTENED water, free from odor and the discoloration of soot and cistern.

Duro softened water is simply your hard city water passed through the Duro Softener. It is better for cooking because it retains the flavor of the vegetables. For toilet and bath, for kitchen and laundry, there is nothing that equals Duro softened water for softness and cleanliness.

Ask the Duro dealer for prices and demonstration.

MISTRESS WILLING:

A ROMANCE, BY RAFAEL SABATINI.

(Author of "Scaramouche," "Captain Blood," "Fortune's Fool," etc.)

He rose from the table and took a turn in the room, moving noiselessly in his stockinged feet. He felt the coolness of the air and the softness of his bed. He had been in his long ride from London was cut off or forgotten. He must go forth. He picked up his fine shoes of Spanish leather, his black velvet hat and his sword. He looked at the clock. It was half past twelve. He took a key from his pocket, unlocked an oak cupboard and withdrew the heavy muddy boots in which he had ridden from town. He drew them on and, taking up his hat and sword, went down the creaking stairs and out into the street.

Brickwater had fallen quiet; now the army was gone and townfolk were in their beds. Moody, unconsciously, yet as if guided by a sort of instinct, he went down the High Street and then turned right into the narrow lane that led in the direction of Lupton House. By the gates of the house he paused, recalled out of his mind and remembered aware of whether his steps had led him by the light of the hall door standing open, a black figure slipped against the light behind it. "What was happening here?" Why were they not about like all decent folk?

The figure called to him in a quavering voice. "Mr. Willing! Mr. Willing!" for the light beating upon his face and figure from the open door had revealed him. The form came swiftly forward, his steps pattering down the walk, another slender figure surged in its place upon the threshold, hovered there an instant, then plunged down into the darkness to come after it. But the first was by now upon Mr. Willing.

"What is it, Jasper?" he asked, recognizing the old servant.

"Mistress Ruth" waited the fellow, wringing his hands. "She... she has been... carried off!" He sprang out in blind confusion, his short run and by the excitement that possessed him.

No word said Willing. He just stood and stared, scarcely understanding, and in that moment they were joined by Richard. He seized Willing by the arm. "Blake has carried her off," he cried.

"Blake?" Mr. Willing and Jasper wondered with a sensation of mutuality as if an ordinary running away. But Richard's next words made it plain to him that it was no ordinary element, nor even amorous abduction.

"He has carried her to Faversham," for her betrayal of his town's plan to seize the Duke.

That Richard, Mr. Willing, he wasted no time in idle questions or idle complaints. "How long since?" he asked, and it was he who clutched Richard near by the shoulder and with a hand that hurt.

"Not ten minutes ago," was the quavering answer.

"And you were at hand when it befell?" cried Willing, the scorn in his voice rising superior to his agitation and fears for Ruth. "You were at hand, and could neither prevent nor follow him?"

"I'll go with you now, if you'll give chase," whispered Richard, feeling himself for once the craven that he was.

"If?" cried Willing, hesitatingly, and dragged him past the gate and up towards the house even as he spoke. "Is there a horse at hand?"

"To spare," said Richard as they hurried on.

"They started the house and found the stable door open as Blake had left it. Old Jasper followed with a lamp which burned steadily, so calm was the air of that July night. In three minutes they had saddled a couple of nags; in five they were riding for the bridge and the road to Weston Zoyland.

"It is a miracle you remained in Faversham," said Richard as they rode. "How came you to be left behind?"

"I had a task assigned me in the town against the Duke's return tomorrow," Willing explained, and spoke almost mechanically, his mind full of—anguished by—thoughts of Ruth.

"Against the Duke's return?" cried Richard, first surprised and then thinking that Willing spoke at random. "Against the Duke's return?" he repeated, and then said, "That is what I said."

"But the Duke is marching to Gloucester!"

"The Duke is marching by circuitous ways to Sedgewick," answered Willing, never dreaming that at this time of day there could be the slightest impediment in going so much, indeed, making head of what he said, his mind obsessed by the other, to him, far weightier matter.

"To Sedgewick?" gasped Westmore.

"Yes—to take Faversham by surprise—to destroy King James' soldiers in their beds. He should be near upon the attack by now. By now! Spare on and save your breath if we are to overtake Sir Rowland."

They pounded on through the night at a breakneck pace when

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF MRS. SPINK

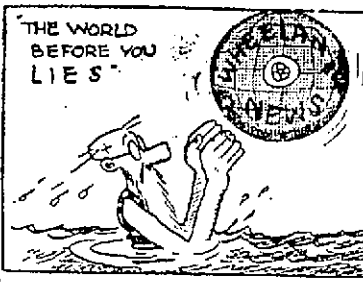

Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Full Credit

Minnesota Junction, Wis.—"I was under treatment, but nothing seemed to help me, and I was run-down and so weak that I had to remain in bed much of the time and was like an invalid. I had pains in my abdomen and in the female organs, and my stomach both before and after meals. My husband said I was doing very well, but I was not. I had taken the Vegetable Compound advertised, thought it must be good, and brought it home to me and advised me to try it. After taking one bottle I was able to eat, and after six bottles I was able to do for years. I have a new baby who is doing nicely, and I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and feeling better than I have for four years. The medicine is simply wonderful and a good thing to have in the house."—Mrs. GEORGE SPINK, Minnesota Junction, Wisconsin.

A country-wide canvass of purveyors of the Compound reports 100 per cent. benefited.

PICTURES OF PEOPLE AND EVENTS TELL STORY OF WEEK

Moroccan Battlefield Holds Attention of Spain's Dictator

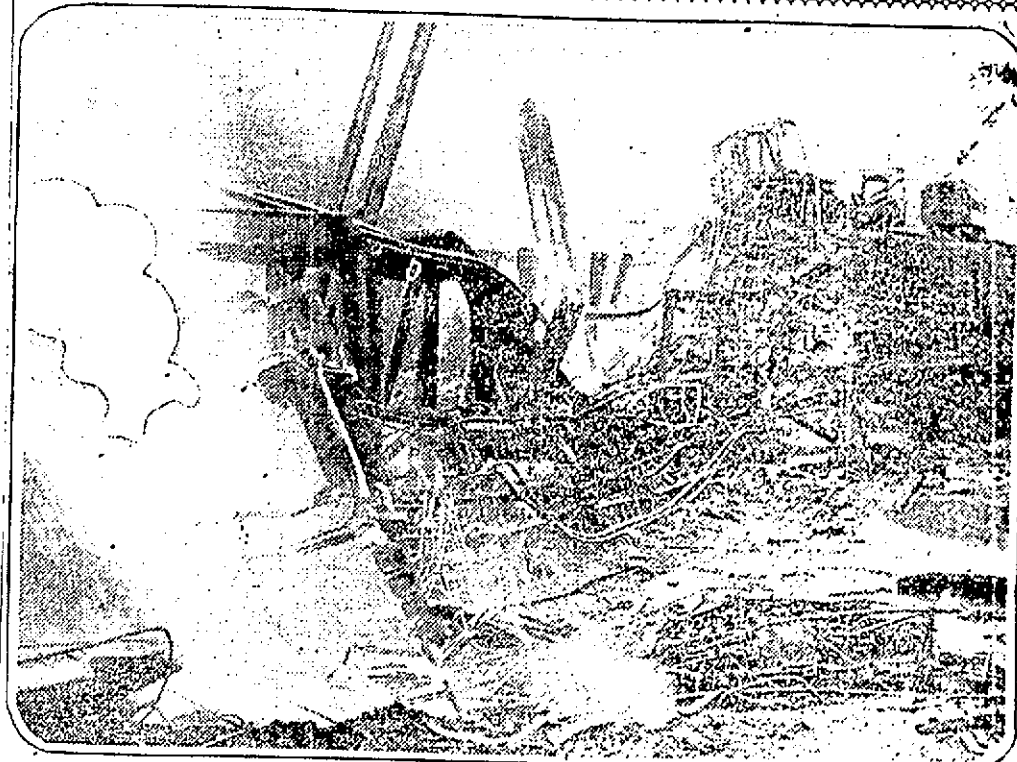

General Primo de Rivera, the Spanish dictator, is giving his active personal attention to Spain's biggest problem, its military campaign in Morocco, so far a disastrous adventure. He is shown with the son of Raisuli, famed outlaw, on a visit to the palace of the sheriff of Arcila.

German Youths Drill to Defend Republic

Nearly half a million youths are declared to belong to the "Banner Black Red Gold," an organization formed to defend the German republic against secret monarchistic societies and military bodies. The society is so named because of the contrast in the colors of the republic and the old monarchy. A group of well-trained recruits belonging to the order is shown.

Where Four Score Narrowly Escaped Death

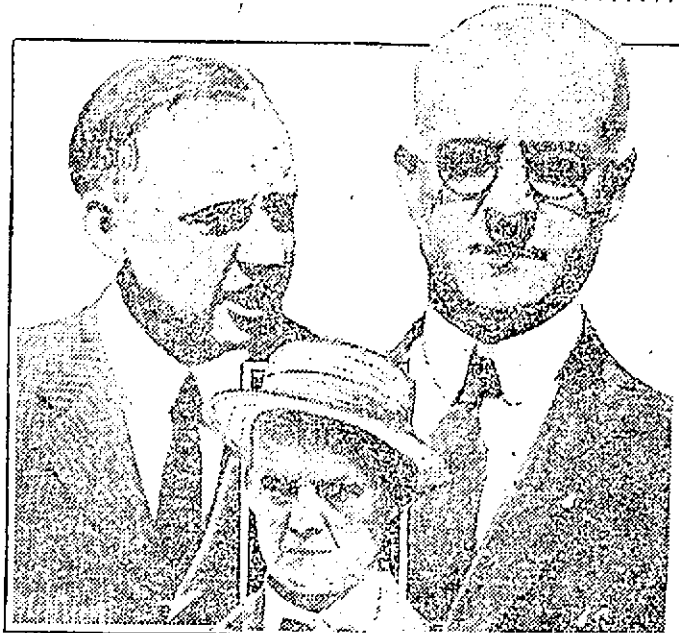

Four score persons narrowly escaped death when a Wheeling and Lake Erie Ry. passenger train plunged 50 feet from a burning bridge into Sugar Creek, 25 miles south of Canton, O. The engineer of the train was the only one to be killed. He died at his throttle. The locomotive and first car toppled from the structure, leaving two coaches on the bridge. This enabled passengers to escape. In a few minutes the coaches, too, went into the heap of ruins. A Pullman car was pulled off the structure and saved.

GIRL RESCUER OF FOUR IS AWARDED CARNEGIE MEDAL

A Carnegie hero medal has been awarded Miss Emily Sites, daughter of Congressman Frank C. Sites of Harrisburg, Pa., for saving two girls from drowning in Susquehanna river, near her home, and following this up with the rescue of two men from drowning in a 200-foot ore hole.

After 10 Years, Brother Accuses Brothers of Slaying Parents

An accusing finger has been lifted after 10 years at Arthur (left) and Benjamin Dorsheimer, brothers, of Philadelphia, who, their brother, Frank (insert), declares confessed to him that they murdered their parents in 1914. They deny it. The parents were found dead, evidently from the effects of gas poisoning.

Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York, will be the American member of the special commission which will adjust claims for damages made against Mexico by U. S. citizens.

Major General John L. Hines will succeed to the post of chief of staff of the army when John J. Pershing is placed on the retired list next month.

FEATHER FANCIES MOST POPULAR TRIM FOR FALL

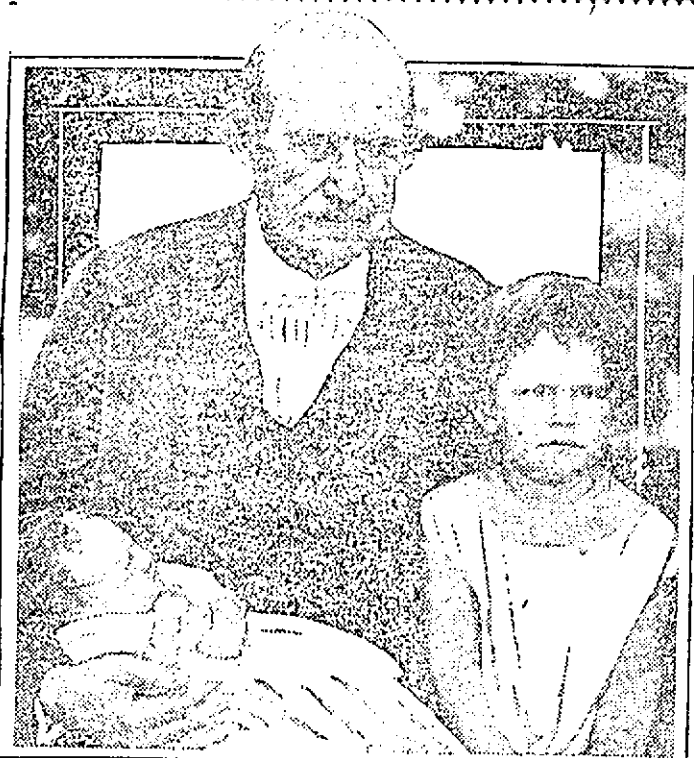

Velvet hats for fall wear show that feather fancies are leading trimming favorites. Hat at top is brown velvet with brown and tan ostrich trim; the square crown illustrated in the other two is also much in vogue.

Has Most Beautiful Figure In America, Ziegfeld Decides

Dorothy Knapp, famed as a model for Howard Chandler Christy before she was awarded first prize in a national beauty contest at Atlantic City two years ago, has the most beautiful figure in America, avows Florenz Ziegfeld, maestro of the Follies. Dorothy, now 18, is a New York city girl.

W. J. Bryan Keeps Youngish With Third and Fourth Generations

Throngs Struggle to See Loeb-Leopold Hearing

The Loeb-Leopold trial is out-drawing all other "shows" in Chicago. Curious throngs stand in line for hours and fight to get into the small courtroom where Judge John H. Caverly will decide whether the youths must hang or serve the rest of their lives in prison.

Above is a view of the head of the long line of persons within the courts building, eager to see the slayers, who are (right, above) just back of their attorneys, Clarence Darrow (left) and Benjamin Bachrach. Alienists are flocking to the trial, too. At right are two of them, William A. Krohn (left) and Dr. H. D. Singer (right), discussing the case with Milton Smith (center), assistant prosecutor, in the courtroom.

Need a Town? You Can Have This One, Rent Free

The entire town of Lindentree, Ohio (shown below), is offered rent free for one year to any responsible organization or individual who will make use of it, by C. A. Kolp, Canton, O., businessman, its owner. It's a "dead town" now, but it has a mayor (at left), a town marshal (next), and a full complement of officials. All three families in town are represented in the picture.

Dogs Given $15 Allowance, But Mother Only Gets $10

The will of Mrs. Maude L. Vause of New York City gives each of her three dogs an allowance of $5 a week, and leaves her mother, Mrs. Emma Young, an allowance of $10 a week. Mrs. Young is shown with the dogs.

—Another Goodyear achievement—

SUPERTWIST

Goodyear has perfected a new method of twisting cord fabric to give it much greater elasticity and long wearing qualities. Tires made of GOODYEAR SUPERTWIST have given as high as 100% more mileage than those manufactured in the customary way. A tire carcass built of GOODYEAR SUPERTWIST cord fabric is much more flexible and gives with road shocks instead of resisting them, and possibly breaking.

And remember, you get all these additional advantages without additional cost. Goodyear cost no more and serve a great deal longer.

There is a new style of radiator and hood. More graceful lines. Cow lights. Beautiful, enduring Duco satin finish—and there are many other up-to-date refinements.

One of your neighbors is driving an Oldsmobile Six! Talk with him—then come in and admire the beautiful lines of this long-lived car.
